King David Dogs Opens New Location in Downtown Indianapolis, Indiana

King David Dogs has opened its new and expanded location in downtown Indianapolis. The restaurant is located at 135 N. Pennsylvania Avenue, on the ground floor of the M&I Bank Building, at the corner of Pennsylvania and Ohio streets.

Brent Joseph, owner and CEO says “We are excited to be opening in this larger, brighter and more convenient location. We hope the new space allows us to serve more customers in a more comfortable environment, while maintaining our commitment to top of the line products and our one-of-a-kind hot dogs. We have added some interesting new items to the menu, but we have been careful to keep all of our customer favorites. The new location will give us a great opportunity to provide additional catering and quick-serve options for lunch to downtown workers and residents.”

King David Dogs’ new location has incorporated many references to its seventy-year history as a proud Indianapolis brand. Paul and William Hene, who fled World War II Germany and settled in Indianapolis, founded King David Dogs in the early 1940’s. William Hene’s grandson Brent Joseph, and his wife Hannah, resurrected the brand in 2006 and are thrilled to see the new downtown location demonstrate so much brand nostalgia. Hannah Joseph says, “King David is a fantastic product in its own right. But now people will get to see more about its history and hopefully become a part of its future.”

King David Dogs has been voted Best Hot Dog in Indy numerous times. King David Dogs offers a signature, quarter pound, all-beef, kosher style hot dog, along with over thirty-five toppings, including everything from pineapple relish and fried eggs to bacon and barbeque sauce. In addition to the award-winning hot dogs, King David Dogs also offers chicken dogs, fresh cut fries, tater tots, half-pound cookies, and chili.
